

This architectural section drawing illustrates the structural layout of a building. The drawing includes the following details:

- Structural Elements: Thick black lines represent the primary structural members, including columns and beams. A yellow-shaded area at the top indicates a roof or ceiling structure.
- Floor Levels: Elevation markers indicate the heights of various levels:
 - UT -0.150 (at the left ground level)
 - 0.420 (at the base of the columns)
 - +0.000 (at the main floor level)
 - +1.560 (at the upper floor level)
 - +3.480 (at the top of the main wall section)
 - +3.750 (at the top of the upper wall section)
 - +3.980 (at the top of the upper floor level)
 - +4.160 (at the top of the main wall section)
 - +7.980 (at the top of the roof structure)
 - UT -0.020 (at the right ground level)
- Dimensions: Vertical dimensions are provided for the wall and floor sections:
 - 150 (height of the base wall section)
 - 3 750 (height of the upper wall section)
 - 4 000 (height of the main wall section)
 - 4 250 (height of the upper floor level)
 - 4 000 (height of the main floor level)
 - 250 (height of the roof structure)
- Other Features:
 - Orange dashed lines within the wall sections represent reinforcement or specific construction details.
 - A staircase is shown on the right side of the drawing, with a level marker of +1.560.
 - A small orange structure is visible at the top left corner.
